The US Department of Transportation Emergency Response Guidebook recommends a standard evacuation zone of 800 meters (0.5 miles) for accidents involving railcars filled with flammable liquids and gases and an isolation zone of 1600 meters (1.0 miles) around any railcar filled with those materials if they are on fire.

DEC is now accepting public comments on Global Companies' permit modification application to modify its Air Title V Facility permit to allow Global to heat petroleum products (crude residual fuel and bio-fuels) at its Albany facility. Comments can be submitted to DEC until November 30.
